

ABSTRACT

(R. Andrews, 8-76)

Farmers and Merchants Bank Building

circa 1915-1920

55-59 West Washington Street

Hagerstown

Washington County

This four story high, eclectic type commercial building was erected about 1915-1920. It is constructed of brown brick and has had a modern front added on the ground floor but is original on the upper levels. The facade (north side) is capped with a bracketed, tiled roof and false curvilinear gable in the Spanish Revival manner and is divided into three sections by two columns of Tudor influenced bay windows.

The property is the eastern half of Lot No. 97 as delineated on the original plat of Hagerstown. The land was purchased in 1897 by the Mechanics Loan and Savings Institute which eventually changed its name to Mechanics Loan and Savings Bank. The present owners acquired the property and building in 1934 following the failure of the savings and loan firm.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
The building stands at 55-59 West Washington Street in Hagerstown, Washington County, and is located on the south side of the street near the center of the block formed by Public Square and Summit Avenue. The building is an early twentieth century, brown brick, eclectic type, commercial structure which is four stories high and sits tight to the sidewalk and neighboring buildings. The facade (north side) is divided into three sections, has a modern front on the street level, and appears to be original on the upper three stories. The present ground floor facade is a 1975 adaptation of a circa 1930s, Classical influenced front and is tied into the facade of the neighboring building to the west (61-65 West Washington Street) which is an annex to the bank. The upper three stories of the facade has two columns of tripartite bay windows flanking the central portion. The west column of windows has three windows on each floor and is capped by a Spanish Revival style tiled roof which extends over the central portion of the facade and is supported by three pairs of large brackets. The easterly window column terminates just above the top floor level with a flat roof which emphasizes the curvilinear gable (false) on the roof line. This east column has four windows per floor. The central portion of the facade has a single window (double-hung, wooden sashes with one-over-one lights) centered on each floor. These windows have concrete, shelf-like balconies with supports and iron balustrades. The bricks of the upper levels of the facade are laid in stretcher bond with decorative designs (mostly diamonds with stone centers) and banding. The windows in the bay columns are rectangular with rectangular lights divided by stone mullions in a fashion commonly associated with the late Tudor period. A chimney rises on the west end of the facade above the tile roof. The building appears to be structurally sound.
